RCTS-003B Radio Test Set

Overview

The RCTS-003B provides “State of the Art” capabilities for semi-automated testing ofLife Support communications.

The RCTS-003B Radio Communication Test System is made up of the general purpose TS-4317 Military Communications Test Set and the J-4843A Generic Appliqué Housing (J-Box) with the RPM-003B Radio Personality Module (RPM) fitted for testing life support radios.

The RCTS-003B Radio Communications Test System is the self-contained, transportable, semi-automated test system that is being fielded for use by the US Armed Forces for operational verification testing and/or repairs of Life Support Radio Systems. Operators of the RCTS-003B can be assured that front line life support assets are mission ready, with a corresponding increase in operational readiness.
