Valiant Graphics Overlay Generator - (Mature Product)

The Valiant graphics overlay generator provides facilities for superimposing text and graphics on top of coloured images generated by many different manufacturers' graphics systems. For example, Valiant can be used to draw a head-up display over a 3D out-of-cockpit view in an aircraft simulator. The Valiant graphics overlay generator is a VME compatible card providing interlaced and non-interlaced colour display capability with genlock and keying circuits on one double Eurocard. A TMS34020 32-bit graphics processor running at 32 or 40 MHz. gives powerful graphics drawing performance. Dual video output channels can provide independent displays and can be accurately genlocked to two synchronised video sources via dual video input channels. Once genlocked, independent overlays can be provided for the two video sources.
