Fowler Gageport NT

A UNIVERSAL GAGE INTERFACE

The GagePort NT allows users to interface with virtually all digital gages from most manufacturers. This includes micrometers, calipers, indicators and all other electronic hand tools.

Both two and four-channel gage models are available, allowing you to connect either two or four gages to each.

Compatible with any host computer. GagePort NT converts electronic gage output into standard ASCII format for data collection or analysis on almost any host computer that use either GageTalker or third-party software. Our Software Wedge, allows GagePorts to send readings directly into existing PC programs, without modification, using the standard keyboard buffer.

Use the GagePort Backplanes to mix and match the GagePort NT with other GagePort models. You can collect and analyze data from any mix of digital, BCD and analog gages. By stacking Backplanes, you can interface as many as 32 gages to one RS232 port.
