UBS 2111

The UBS 2111 control amplifier is suitable for the control of proportional magnets in all applications. This amplifier can be used to control path proportion valves, pressure proportion valves, quantity regulators, proportional solenoid-actuated pumps and all kinds of regulation devices which are actuated by proportional magnets.
Standard options are available for special, frequently required control tasks, e.g. for rpm controls with tachogenerators for the response, position control direction on proportional magnets, position controls, etc.

System solutions are available for many problems through the high number of additional cards.
