JTRS SDR KIT :

Your portable lab

Not only does the JTRS SDR kit make it easy to reconfigure software-defined signal processing and change transmission parameters remotely, it allows you to add new applications by reprogramming the control software. Thanks to its remote partial reconfiguration (PR) technology, users can deploy new features, such as monitoring.

The JTRS SDR Kit can simulate new applications and demonstrate their real-world effects. It includes 2 IDP 100 modems, each featuring a set of accessory devices, including a laptop, IP phone, and webcam. Together, these devices allow you to develop, test, and observe results on a single platform.
